

Leaflet minimum content of organizational regulations for financial institutions according to Art. 17 FinIA

General remarks

All financial institutions shall be appropriately organized in accordance with the Federal Act on Financial Institutions (FinIA). For legal entities, the organizational regulations contain detailed provisions based on the underlying articles of association on duties, competencies and responsibilities of governing bodies and employees.

Note for sole proprietorships: instead of organizational regulations in the narrow sense, there must be at least one corresponding organizational document which includes the same minimal topics to be dealt with by means of organizational regulations. Such document may be enriched with other topics in order to reduce the number of documents. The following provisions of this leaflet may therefore be applied analogously.

In case of sole proprietorships/one-man businesses/financial institutions with only one qualified managing director etc. it must be particularly established how business continuity is guaranteed in the event of absenteeism of the only person or the only qualified managing director. Usually, this is regulated by means of a cooperation or delegation contract; this ensures seamless continuity of the approved business (or business continuity is granted by the contractual partner or, if only such is indicated, the potential business dissolution organized). The delegation / cooperation partner must be at least an equally regulated (and consequently approved) financial institution.

The organizational regulations as well as any further regulations shall be adapted in accordance with the activity, size as well as organization of the respective financial institution. The internal regulations and directives shall be complete, appropriate and expedient and ensure implementation of the company's strategy and duties. In particular, these should regulate the internal responsibilities and competencies regarding implementation of due diligence obligations. Accordingly, the respective positions are to be filled with appropriately qualified personnel in order to ensure implementation and control of the individual obligations.

This leaflet is not exhaustive but lists all aspects which usually need to be laid down. FINcontrol Suisse Ltd reviews the organizational regulations on the occasion of the (preliminary) affiliation as well as in the context of the ongoing supervision. The organizational regulations also form a mandatory document for approval by the Swiss Financial Market Authority FINMA.
